EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

It is the policy of The Towing Company that all employees are 'at will' and, as such, are free to resign at any time without reason. The Company, likewise, retains the right to terminate an employee at any time with or without reason or notice. Nothing contained in this manual or any other document provided to you is intended to be, nor should it be, construed as a guarantee that employment, or any benefit, will be continued for any set period of time.

At the time of hire, you are required to read and sign the acknowledgment form, located at the beginning of this manual, which includes an Employment-at-Will Statement.

THE TOWING COMPANY POLICY AND PROCEDURE

TITLE: EMPLOYMENT

NUMBER: 100.2

REV:

SUBJECT: Interviewing and Selection

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

It is the policy of The Towing Company to provide equal opportunity to all candidates for employment and to ensure that the best person for each position is selected. All Towing Company employees involved in the interview and selection process must know and adhere to applicable equal employment opportunity laws and guidelines.

When an opening exists, and if deemed appropriate, the job will be posted to all employees via email or job posting. Solicitation of additional resumes by placing advertisements will be coordinated through management who will conduct initial interviews. This interview is used to screen candidates based on the requirements of the job opening. Any questions regarding this procedure should be directed to management.

All interviewing candidates must complete a The Towing Company employment application that includes a background check agreement form.

Job Offer and Background Checks

The job offer must include the following conditions:

- *Passing a drug screen
- *Providing acceptable documentation attesting to identity and employability (I9).
- *Passing a background check

The offer includes job title, start date, wage/salary stated in terms of annualized or hourly compensation, and any other compensation terms (commissions, draws, benefits, etc.),

All job offers are formally extended in writing and are prepared by Management.

Prior to extending an offer, Management will initiate the background check with a third party. As a rule, managers should allow five working days for the background check and drug screen to be completed. Results must be received before the employee starts employment.

Offers given prior to the background check being completed must state that the offer is contingent upon passing both the background check and drug screen as well as providing acceptable documentation attesting to identity and employability.

The failure of either the background check or drug screen is sufficient reason to rescind a job offer to a potential employee.

Employees who accept a job offer with The Towing Company must sign and date the offer letter and return it to Management by the designated date.

It is the policy of The Towing Company to comply with all federal and state laws concerning the employment of persons with disabilities and to act in accordance with regulations and guidance issued by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). Furthermore, it is our company policy not to discriminate against qualified individuals with disabilities in regard to application procedures, hiring, advancement, discharge, compensation, training or other terms, conditions, and privileges of employment.

The company will reasonably accommodate qualified individuals with a disability so that they can perform the essential functions of a job unless doing so causes a direct threat to the safety of these individuals or others in the workplace and the threat cannot be eliminated by reasonable accommodation and/or if the accommodation creates an undue hardship to The Towing Company. SUBJECT: Job Posting

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

It is the policy of The Towing Company to communicate vacancies to all employees, whenever possible, allowing self-nomination as part of the career development process. However, both internal and external candidates may be considered for all job openings in order to place the most qualified person available for the job.

While it is the philosophy of The Towing Company to promote from within whenever possible, there are business conditions that could cause a position to be filled without posting first or to post a position while simultaneously recruiting from the outside.

The business conditions that could cause a decision to bypass posting, or to post the position while simultaneously recruiting from the outside, include, but are not limited to: organizational restructuring; position requirements that include skills, education, and/or experience that are not known to match any existing employee, and critical operational needs.

When an opening exists, it will be posted by the time clock. Each position will remain open for at least five working days.

To be eligible to apply:

- Employees must have six months of employment in their current position (waiver of time in position requires approval of management).
- Employees must be performing at a satisfactory level in their current position and not currently be involved in any performance and/or disciplinary action.

Management will interview the most qualified candidates. Following interviews with all candidates, internal and external, management should select an individual solely based upon qualifications, developmental needs, and job requirements.

Management should inform the other candidates that they were not selected for the position. As part of the developmental process, management may counsel all internal candidates as to why he/she was not selected for the position and what he/she can do to improve advancement opportunities in the future.

REV:

SUBJECT: Hours of Work

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

The Towing Company's ability to serve its clients and customers in a timely manner is of utmost importance. The needs of the business dictate that all employees are present and working at their normal start time and remain for their normal hours of work.

Towing is a 24-hour operation. To effectively serve our customers, the work schedule of the staff will vary and is based upon requirements to service our customers.

You are expected to follow your daily schedule and work your required work hours each day. Distractions must be kept to an absolute minimum and Tow Truck Operators should not text while driving.

Absences of two consecutive workdays without notification to your manager will be considered job abandonment and a voluntary quit.

On-Call Pay

On-call employees, who are called back to work, outside their normal work schedule, will be paid at their regularly hourly rate, plus a commission bonus, as determined by management. All full-time regular Tow Truck Operators are required to participate in scheduling on the on-call calendar. Other employees who are not classified as full-time regular may participate with the approval of management.

Overtime compensation is applicable only when total hours worked exceed 40 hours in a workweek.

Violations of this policy may result in disciplinary action, including jeopardizing your continued employment with The Towing Company.

THE TOWING COMPANY POLICY AND PROCEDURE

TITLE: EMPLOYMENT

NUMBER: 100.6

REV:

SUBJECT: Time Reporting

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

A work hour is any hour of the day that is worked and a workday is defined as the 24-hour period starting at 12:00 a.m. and ending at 11:59 p.m. The workweek begins on Monday and ends on Sunday. A pay period is two workweeks.

Overtime is defined as hours worked by an hourly or nonexempt employee in excess of 40 hours in a pay period. Overtime hours should be approved in advance by the manager to whom the employee reports.

Employees will use a time clock to track all hours worked and must clock in and out when starting work, and leaving work at the end of the day. Failing to clock in and out of every work shift, three times, can lead to termination of employment. All absences from work schedules should be appropriately recorded.

Meal/Rest Periods

The scheduling of meal periods at The Towing Company is variable and set by the employee's immediate manager with the goal of providing the least possible disruption to company operations.

Employees who work at least eight consecutive hours will be provided a meal break not to exceed 30 minutes. This time may be delegated between jobs and it is possible that there may not be enough time to take a full 30-minute break. The meal period will be included in the total hours of work per day and is paid. If a Tow Truck Operator should stop to eat or pick up lunch, he is required to report to the dispatcher, prior to stopping, and indicate where the stop is to be made. Dispatchers are not permitted to leave for lunch unless there is another dispatcher in place to receive and dispatch calls.

Short rest breaks (5-10 minutes) will be paid as normal time. Employees may not take more than two rest breaks, in an eight-hour period, during busy times but may take additional short breaks with advanced approval. During busy periods employees may be required to work extended hours.

SUBJECT: Employee Job Classifications

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

All employees are designated as either non-exempt or exempt under state and federal wage and hour laws. The following is intended to help employees understand employment classifications and employees' employment status and benefit eligibility. These classifications do not guarantee employment for any specified period of time. The right to terminate the employment-at-will relationship at any time is retained by both the employee and The Towing Company.

Non-exempt employees are employees whose work is covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA). They are not exempt from the law's requirements concerning minimum wage and overtime.

Exempt employees are generally managers or professional, administrative, or technical staff who are exempt from the minimum wage and overtime provisions of the FLSA. Exempt employees hold jobs that meet the standards and criteria established under the FLSA by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The Towing Company has established the following categories for both nonexempt and exempt employees:

- Regular, full time: Employees who are not in a temporary status and who are regularly scheduled to work the company's full-time schedule of at least 37.5 hours per week.
- Regular, part time: Employees who are not in a temporary status and who are regularly scheduled to work less than the full-time schedule but at least 20 hours each week.
- Temporary, full time: Employees who are hired as interim replacements to temporarily supplement the workforce or to assist in the completion of a specific - project and who are temporarily scheduled to work the company's full-time schedule for a limited duration. Employment beyond any initially stated period does not in any way imply a change in employment status.

- Temporary, part time: Employees who are hired as interim replacements to temporarily supplement the workforce or to assist in the completion of a specific project and who are temporarily scheduled to work less than the company's full-time schedule for a limited duration. Employment beyond any initially stated period does not in any way imply a change in employment status.

Temporary and part-time workers are not eligible for company benefits unless specifically stated otherwise in company policy or are deemed eligible according to plan documents.

SUBJECT: Background Checks

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

To ensure that individuals who join The Towing Company are well qualified and to ensure that The Towing Company maintains a safe and productive work environment, it is our policy to conduct pre-employment background checks on all applicants who accept an offer of employment. Background checks may include verification of any information on the applicant's resume or application form.

All background checks are conducted in conformity with the Federal Fair Credit Reporting Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and state and federal privacy and anti-discrimination laws. Reports are kept confidential and are only viewed by individuals involved in the hiring process.

If information obtained in a background check would lead The Towing Company to deny employment, a copy of the report will be provided to the applicant, and the applicant will have the opportunity to dispute the report's accuracy. Background checks will include a criminal record check, although a criminal conviction does not automatically bar an applicant from employment.

Additional checks such as a driving record or credit report may be made on applicants for particular job categories if appropriate and job related.

The Towing Company also reserves the right to conduct a background check for current employees to determine eligibility for promotion or re-assignment in the same manner as described above.

REV:

SUBJECT: Employee Relationships

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

The Towing Company wants to ensure that business practices do not create situations such as conflict of interest or favoritism. This extends to practices that involve employee hiring, promotion and transfer. Close relatives, partners, those in a dating relationship or members of the same household generally are not permitted to be in positions that have a reporting relationship to each other. Close relatives are defined as husband, wife, domestic partner, father, mother, father-in-law, mother-in law, grandfather, grandmother, son, son-in-law, daughter, daughter-in law, uncle, aunt, nephew, niece, brother, sister, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, step relatives, cousins and domestic partners (married or not).

If employees begin a dating relationship or become relatives, partners, or members of the same household and if one party is in a supervisory position, that person is required to inform management of the relationship.

The Towing Company reserves the right to apply this policy to situations where there is a conflict or the potential for conflict because of the relationship between employees, even if there is no direct-reporting relationship or authority involved.

THE TOWING COMPANY POLICY AND PROCEDURE

TITLE: EMPLOYMENT

NUMBER: 101

REV:

SUBJECT: Outside Employment

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

The Towing Company understands the need for some employees to have more than one source of income. You are permitted to engage in outside work or to hold other jobs, subject to certain restrictions as outlined below.

Activities and conduct away from the job must not compete with, conflict with, or compromise the company interests or adversely affect job performance and the ability to fulfill all job responsibilities. You are prohibited from performing any services for customers on non-working time that are normally performed by The Towing Company. This prohibition also extends to the unauthorized use of any company tools or equipment and the unauthorized use or application of any confidential information. In addition, you are not permitted to solicit or conduct any outside business during paid working time.

You are cautioned to carefully consider the demands that additional work activity will create before accepting outside employment. Outside employment will not be considered an excuse for poor job performance, absenteeism, tardiness, leaving early, refusal to travel or refusal to work overtime or different hours. If The Towing Company determines that your outside work interferes with your performance, you may be asked to terminate the outside employment.

If you have accepted outside employment, you may not use paid time off to conduct work activities on the outside job. Fraudulent use of your paid time off will result in disciplinary action, up to and including, termination of your employment.

SUBJECT: Paid Time Off

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

The Towing Company recognizes that adequate time should be available to you for rest and relaxation away from the work environment. For this reason, you are encouraged to observe your full allotment of paid time off each year. While every reasonable effort is made to allow you to schedule paid time off at your choosing, time away from work must be approved ahead of time by your manager and approval will be based upon business needs.

Eligibility requirements for paid time off are based upon your length of service and is only available to regular full-time employees. You are eligible to earn paid time off based on the following schedule:

Paid Time Off Eligibility Requirements

Term of Service	Amount of Days
One year of service	7 days with pay
Two years of service	14 days with pay
Five years of service	20 days with pay
Ten years of service	25 days with pay
Fifteen years of service	30 days with pay

The Towing Company understands that occasionally there may be extenuating circumstances that require an employee to miss work beyond the amount of paid days off provided. Additional time off, for this purpose, will be unpaid and must be approved, in advance, by your manager. Proof of extenuating circumstances may be required.

You are encouraged to use all your earned paid time off each year as it does not roll over at the end of the year. If you do not use it, you lose it.

When scheduling time off, or if it is necessary to be absent from work, you should notify your manager as far in advance as you can - at least 48 hours - if at all possible. If you plan to use two or more weeks, consecutively, you should provide at least one week notice.

Unless part of a pre-hire agreement, you are not eligible for any paid time off in the first year of employment. You are expected to use that time to learn as much as possible and to keep days out at an absolute minimum. Missed days in the first year will be unpaid unless approved by management. Days taken off, after all earned time is used, should only occur because of extenuating circumstances and will also be unpaid.

If you are absent from work more than two consecutive workdays due to a medical problem, you may be required to provide a doctor's statement to document the absences.

Once notification of termination has been given, (whether you or company initiated), no paid time off may be used to constitute part of an official notice period. Upon termination of employment, you will be paid in your final paycheck for any earned, but unused, paid time off.

As the Towing Company continues to grow, cost effective recruitment of competitive candidates must be an on-going process. Our experience has been that current employees can be a valuable resource in the identification of new talent. Friends, former co-workers, acquaintances through professional organizations, etc., possessing the skills, dedication, work ethic, and creativity expected of The Towing Company employees are encouraged to be introduced to our company.

All employees may refer candidates for employment; however, payment will only be made for regular, full-time candidates who are hired for a position. Employees who are not eligible to receive payment for referrals include any member of the management team who are involved in the interview or selection decision of the referred candidate.

The intent of the Employee Referral Bonus is to reward employees for introducing solid candidates, who they know personally, and not merely brief acquaintances. Referring employees must attest, in writing that they personally know the candidate and have discussed with them, the Towing Company and potential employment opportunities.

Employees should make referrals by attaching the candidate's resume (or employment application) to the completed Employee Referral Bonus form, and forwarding both to management.

Candidates will be considered for payment purposes if there has been no prior referral source or a member of the management team has not made previous contact with the candidate.

Submission and acceptance of employee referrals does not entitle a candidate to an interview with the company. The company retains the sole responsibility to screen, select, and interview only those candidates appearing to possess the skills and requirements for the opening.

The Employee Referral Bonus amount is $500 and will be paid in two lump sum payments through payroll. $250 will be paid on the next payroll after the newly referred employee has completed 90 days of employment. The second lump sum of $250 will be paid on the next payroll following the newly referred employee's completion of six months of employment. Exceptions to this policy will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

Sexual harassment is illegal and will not be tolerated by The Towing Company. In support of these objectives it is imperative that we ensure that The Towing Company provides a work environment free of sexual harassment, intimidation, hostility, and other offensive conditions.

Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination that violates Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Maintaining an environment free of discrimination and harassment is every employee's responsibility.

Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature, constitutes sexual harassment when submission or rejection of this conduct explicitly or implicitly affects an individual's employment, unreasonably interferes with an individual's work performance, or creates an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work environment.

If you think you are being harassed, or are subjected to behavior that you find offensive, it is your responsibility to directly inform the harasser that the conduct is unwelcome and must stop. If the harassment and/or offensive conditions persist, discuss the situation with your manager or any management level employee.

All employees (including any employee subject to harassment) are under a duty to report violations to the company. Every complaint of harassment will be investigated and appropriate action will be taken. These steps will include fact-finding and interviews with involved individuals, and may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

The Towing Company strives to provide a friendly and safe environment for all its employees. The company defines bullying as “repeated inappropriate behavior, either direct or indirect, whether verbal, physical or otherwise, conducted by one or more persons against another or others, at the place of work and/or in the course of employment.” Such behavior violates the ethics of the company as the company intends to have all employees treated with dignity and respect.

All employees, including management level employees, need to know that the company will not tolerate bullying behavior. Employees found in violation of this policy will be disciplined, up to and including termination of employment.

Bullying may be intentional or unintentional. SUBJECT: Guidelines for Dispatchers

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

In an effort to provide continuous, seamless, and professional service, Tow Truck Operators and dispatchers must have the ability to stay in contact with each other. To that end, communication can/will take place in several manners: cell phones (both texting and voice communication), two-way radio communication, and tablets.

Dispatcher's Responsibility: The dispatcher is responsible for obtaining and relaying clear and concise information to the Tow Truck Operator, this includes the following:

- Type of service requested: police accident call, tire change, unlock, tow, etc.
- Vehicle information, (year, make, model, and color). The company is aware that in the case of accident calls, this information may not be available. Please gather as much information as possible.
- The location of the key and whether or not someone will be with the vehicle upon arrival.
- Pickup or service location: an address or easily recognizable business name or landmark. If the vehicle is located on a roadway, without an address available, the dispatcher is to provide the road/street, or highway name, the approximate block the vehicle is in, the direction of travel, the nearest cross street (if available), and whether the vehicle is on the shoulder of the road or has been pulled onto a side road.
- Tow destination: an address or business name where the vehicle is to be towed.
- Reason for tow: The dispatcher is to attempt to ascertain the reason for the tow to ensure that the right type of truck and equipment is dispatched. For example, if you don't ask the right questions and "guess" that a motorist needs a tire change, you may send a service truck out only to find out that the motorist has ran over a curb and down an embankment. You will then have to send out a tow truck. This is a major inconvenience and costs the company money.
- Payment and coverage responsibility: The dispatcher should relay to the Tow Truck Operator exactly who is paying for the service. The dispatcher should also relay whether it's a cash call (where the customer pays), a charge account (where the bill is charged to a repair shop), or a motor club (which is a roadside assistance company like AAA). If a motor club is paying for the service, the Tow Truck Operator will need to know the limits of coverage and how much of the service is covered under the plan.

The towing business is an attempt to create order out of chaos and during the course of the day things will change. In order for the dispatcher to do their job to the best of their abilities, constant contact with Tow Truck Operators is a requirement. Calls will come in that require rerouting and the ability to communicate and reassign, as needed, is paramount.

SUBJECT: Guidelines for Tow Truck Operators

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

The Towing Company has put the following guidelines in place to make the work process between Tow Truck Operators and the company run smoothly and to assure all safety and company guidelines are followed.

- Drivers must keep trucks clean of trash, inside the cab, as well as debris outside on the beds, at all times. And trucks must be washed when necessary.
- No smoking is allowed in the trucks or during work hours. Smoking is allowed on breaks only and not during time when actual work is being performed.
- Drivers must keep pens and invoice pads inside their trucks at all times.
- Fuel cards must remain in the truck at all times.
- Drivers must inspect their truck before and after every shift. They must ensure the truck has all the necessary tools to do each job. The truck must have a jack and tire changing tools, a gas can filled with two gallons of gas, and a fully charged jump pack and jump cables, as well as other items included below.
- Drivers must provide their own unlock kit and are responsible for all items in the kit at all times.
- Drivers must ensure that winch lines are in good working order and not be bird-nested on the drum. There must be a recovery chain/strap and two snatch blocks on board. There must also be two 10-foot sections of chain with grab-hooks on both ends and two large J-hooks on board for recoveries.
- The truck must be equipped with a toolbox, with all the tools necessary to do the job, including wire, wire cutters, large pry-bar, a socket-set, and a cheater bar. Drivers must ensure these items are on board and ready for the next driver, if they share the truck.
- Drivers must start their shift with a full tank of fuel and end the shift with a full tank of fuel (especially if the truck is shared). They must also check all fluid levels at the start of each shift; oil, transmission, coolant, washer fluid, and DEF must all be filled to appropriate levels. Any irregularities should be immediately reported to your supervisor, prior to going out on the first call.

- Tow Truck operators must follow all guidelines as outlined in the separate training manual
- When responding to accidents; clean-up may be required and parts of wrecked cars will be removed from the roadway and left on the bed or in the toolboxes of the wrecker; this should only be temporary. After the recovery is complete, this debris must be removed as well.
- Tow Truck Operators may not accept any gifts from body shops, auto mechanic shops, or any business who stands to gain from the offering of such gifts. This includes anything from small gifts such as pens, hats, mouse pads, etc. to larger gifts such as free or discounted repairs in their shop or cash. When a customer has no preference of repair shop, Tow Truck Operators must be able to remain neutral as to where they recommend services from other businesses and the closest reputable business is often the best choice.
- Tow Truck Operators must have the appropriate driver license for the truck they are driving and maintain clean driving records at all time. Please see policy 500, "Company Vehicle and Business Driving" for the policies regarding driving company trucks.

Communication Guidelines:

The Tow Truck Operator is responsible for understanding and recording all information and instructions provided by the dispatcher. They should remain in constant communication as much as is reasonably possible, with the understanding that communication is what makes the dispatching/towing team flow seamlessly.

- Through whatever means of communication available, the Tow Truck Operator must acknowledge, to the dispatcher, that all the information provided to them is understood. If a driver does not understand all the details of what has been provided, he is to get clarity before proceeding.
- Payment and coverage responsibility: The Tow Truck Operator is responsible for collecting all required payments, as provided to him by the dispatcher. He is required to collect and record all necessary information such as; year, make, model, color, VIN, mileage to scene, mileage towed, and odometer reading from the customer's vehicle. And must then remit this money and information to the dispatcher at the end of each shift for recording purposes and to settle up.

300.6 Guidelines for Tow Truck Operators

- The Tow Truck Operator must provide timely communication during each step of the call. Outside of communicating and acknowledging receipt of the information regarding the call that he's been sent on, the Tow Truck Operator must communicate back to the dispatcher:
 - When he arrives at the intended service location.
 - When he's loaded the vehicle onto his tow truck.
 - If a tow, when he's arrived at his intended destination and that he will be out of the truck unloading the vehicle.When the service call has been completed. Upon completion, the Tow Truck Operator should communicate to the dispatcher that he has completed the call.

- There may be times when the Tow Truck Operator is out of his truck such as when fueling, using the restroom, getting a snack, or during lunch. Every instance, that the Tow Truck Operator is out of the truck, must be communicated to the dispatcher beforehand. The Tow Truck Operator must gain the attention of the dispatcher, as there could be dozens of things going on in the office. After the dispatcher acknowledges the Tow Truck Operator's need to communicate, the Tow Truck Operator should provide the dispatcher with the reason and location for the stop. This will allow the dispatcher to contact him by other means, such as a cell phone, if necessary. When the Tow Truck Operator returns to his truck and is ready for another call, he must communicate that information to the dispatcher.

- There may be times when the Tow Truck Operator has been on a call for an inordinate amount of time. This could be the result of a difficult recovery or difficulty finding the vehicle location, customer, and/or the drop-off destination. It is crucial that the Tow Truck Operator communicate these difficulties to the dispatcher. If the dispatcher knows that a Tow Truck Operator will be completing a call close to the beginning of another call, the dispatcher will avoid sending another tow truck to that call. If the difficulties are immediately communicated, the dispatcher can change plans. In addition, if difficulties are communicated in a timely manner, the dispatcher may send another Tow Truck Operator, in the area, who can assist.

EFFECTIVE DATE: 01/01/21

It is the policy of The Towing Company to provide you with every opportunity to perform your job in an acceptable manner. The following guidelines have been established to outline the procedure in maintaining your performance at or above satisfactory levels. Disciplinary action begins as soon as your performance drops below an acceptable level.

1. Initial Action – Verbal Warning

If your performance begins to deteriorate to less than satisfactory, a verbal warning will be given to you along with the expectations of your position. Examples of situations that may indicate deteriorating work performance are: inability or unwillingness to learn the job, poor judgment, reduced quality and/or quantity of work, communication problems, attendance issues, attitude/behavioral concerns, and failure to achieve established goals.

2. Written Warning

If performance has still not improved in a reasonable amount of time, a written warning will be given to you and you will be specifically advised of those areas where work is falling below acceptable levels and of the means required to bring your performance up to par. Your manager should set a time period to reach these goals. The time period will be long enough to accurately reflect your performance against work objectives.

3. Final Written Warning

If the designated amount of time given to improve performance has not yielded satisfactory results and if the requirements/goals have still not been met, or you are incapable of improving total performance to a satisfactory level, a Final Written Warning may be issued. Another time period to meet goals/requirement will be set. If your performance does not improve by the end of the period, further action will be taken including demotion or termination of employment.

Any of these steps can be repeated more than one time, or omitted, if unusual circumstances exist. In the event of severe infractions (fraud, theft, etc), you can be terminated immediately. "Unusual Circumstances" is left up to the manager's discretion and should be fully documented.

It is the policy of The Towing Company to give regular performance appraisals to all employees. The performance appraisal provides a means for discussing, planning, and reviewing the performance of each employee.

Regular performance appraisals help employees clearly define and understand their responsibilities, provide criteria by which their performance will be evaluated, and suggest ways in which they can improve performance. In addition they can help identify employees with potential for advancement within the Company and provide a fair basis for awarding compensation based on merits.

Performance appraisals influence salaries and promotions, also it is critical that supervisors/managers be objective in conducting performance reviews and in assigning overall performance ratings.

Performance Review Schedule

Performance appraisals are conducted on an annual cycle (based on hire date) with the exception of the first year where a six-month review will likely be conducted.

Managers are responsible for the timely and equitable assessment of the performance and contribution of his/her employees. A performance review does not always result in an automatic salary increase. The employee's overall performance and salary level relative to his/her position responsibilities must be evaluated to determine if a salary increase is warranted. Out-of-cycle salary increases must be approved by management.

The performance evaluation will be discussed and signed both by the employee and the manager to ensure that all strengths, areas for improvement, and job goals for the next review period, are clearly communicated. The employee will be given the opportunity to write a response to the evaluation and it will be attached to the performance appraisal.

- Resignation: Although we hope your employment with us will be a mutually rewarding experience, we understand that varying circumstances cause employees to voluntarily resign employment. Resigning employees are encouraged to provide two weeks notice, preferably in writing, to facilitate a smooth transition out of the company. Management reserves the right to provide an employee with two weeks pay, in lieu of notice, in situations where job or business needs warrant such action. If an employee provides less notice than requested, the employer may deem the individual to be ineligible for rehire depending on the circumstances regarding the notice given.
- Retirement: Employees who wish to retire are asked to notify their manager in writing at least one (1) month before the planned retirement date.

It is the practice of The Towing Company to give special recognition to employees at the time of their retirement. The recipient must be employed with The Towing Company for five (5) years to be eligible for such recognition.

- Job abandonment: Employees who fail to report to work or contact their supervisor for two full days shall be considered to have abandoned the job without notice, (voluntary quit) effective at the end of their normal shift on the second day. Employees who are separated due to job abandonment are ineligible to receive accrued time out benefits and are ineligible for rehire.
- Termination: Employees of The Towing Company are employed on an at-will basis, and the company retains the right to terminate an employee at any time.

Return of Company Property

The separating employee must return all company property at the time of separation, including cell phones, tablets, keys, laptops, tools, vehicles, uniforms etc. These items must be returned in order for an employee to receive their full final paycheck. If the final paycheck is insufficient to recover all amounts owed to the company, the employee will be responsible for remitting the amounts owed. Only the owner may forgive or cancel such debts.

The separating employee shall contact management as soon as notice is given to schedule an exit interview. The interview will be on the employee's last day of work or another day, as mutually agreed upon.

Rehire

Former employees who left The Towing Company in good standing and were classified as eligible for rehire may be considered for re-employment. Rehired employees begin benefits just as any other new employee. Previous tenure will not be considered in calculating longevity, leave accruals, or any other benefits.

An applicant or employee who is terminated for violating a policy or who resigned in lieu of termination, due to a policy violation, will be ineligible for rehire.
